

You are invited to attend the
McAfee Executive Forum

McAfee

Please join us for breakfast as we discuss:

- McAfee's vision to provide critical infrastructure protection
- McAfee's strategy on network security optimization and how these concepts can enhance your network infrastructure.
- How McAfee can help your IT organization support productivity while staying ahead of global threats.

Moderated by Greg Brown, Senior Director - Product Marketing, Network Defense.

In his current role, Brown is championing value delivery for McAfee's network defense portfolio.

Brown joined the McAfee network intrusion prevention product management team in 2006. In that role he sponsored industry leading advances in network security integration with McAfee's systems and risk management product lines.

He has more than 15 years experience in the network security and telecommunications industry, working with silicon technology vendors, security software/hardware vendors and service providers.

He has provided design consultant services for national IT security infrastructure programs on four continents, and was the principal designer for first time national Internet infrastructure programs in more than 30 countries.
